When de breeze is gittin' balmy an' de sky is kind o' blue,
An' de trees is gittin' ready foh to blossom out a few,
An' de laziness comes tricklin' f'm yoh haid down to yoh feet,
An' nuffin' cept a good long rest seems gennywines sweet—
Oh! it's den you gotter hustle, same as if de frosty air
Was settin' you a steppin', an' you didn't so much care,
De sunshine on der water telegraphs you foh to shirk,
An' you orter be a loafin'—but you gotter go to work.

I's often had it preach' to me—dar's times foh ev'ry thing;
Dar's times for hones' labor, an' dar's times to dance an' sing,
An' it allus seem to me, betwix de springtime an' de fall,
Dat de time set by foh loafin' is de special time of all,
An' dat's why I am gittin' heavy, jes' as heavy as kin be;
An' you's staggered by de hardships dat in dis existence lurk,
When you orter be a loafin' an' you has to go to work.

Which brought a wealth of oose,
And furnished crowds of patriots who
Had quite a wealth of booze.
The candidate was on the jump,
To see if he could get
The suffrage of that wily cuss,
The floating votereite.

SATURDAY'S LECTURE.

Madame Sugimoto, a Christian Japanese, at Episcopal Church.

Saturday afternoon in the parlor of the Episcopal Church Madame Sugimoto, the Christian Japanese, gave a talk on the women of Japan, their habits and customs. The audience numbered about 150 and was a most highly pleased as well as representative one. The Madame was happily introduced by Judge Thomas R. Phister in a few words pertinent and graciously said. The lecturer is a typical Oriental; diminutive in stature, costumed after the manner of her people and most attractive in appearance in that her deep set lustrous little eyes lit up a countenance glowing with olive and pink hues, tints peculiar to her race. The Madame is of high caste and has been reared amid that culture which stamps the Japanese as foremost in the world's progress in learning, arts and sciences. Her talk was one hour and a half, and in that time she outlined the home life, rearing of children, mode of dress, customs and usages and food. At times her repartee was unctious and the little bits of irony gave that zest and spice which brought ripples of laughter and applause from the assembled hearers. About $20 was realized by the King's Daughters from the entertainment and aside from the pecuniary success the promoters were deluged with compliments for giving so much pleasure. Madame Sugimoto had Miss Wilson as a companion, a thoroughly charming American, who made many friends through her loveliness and bearing.
